The Daily Gazetteer.

TUESDAY, APRIL 18 1738.

N° 878.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France.

THEY write from Rome, that the Ladies of that City, who, in quality of Vassals to the Kingdom of Naples, are to pay their Compliments to the future Queen as she passes through Rome, have wrote to Lions for the richest Stuffs that can be got for their Cloaths, but received for Answer, That the Mercers of Lions have not only sold all they had, but that all that could be made in six Months was bespoke for the Ladies of Naples.

From Belgrade, that General Doxat was interr'd by his Servants but 20 Paces from the Place of Execution; and that a Bundle was found upon him of secret Matters relating to the Affairs of Count Seckendorff, which are to be carried to Vienna.

The Court of Russia has received Letters from their Resident at Ispahan, with Advice, that Kouli Kan's eldest Son, Kuly Mirza, had taken the Towns of Balck and the Kapechackis, and that he had no Place to take but Kandus, in order to compleat the Reduction of every Province that had refused to own Kouli Kan's Authority.

Letters of the 16th of March O. S. from Peterfburg say, the Court has received an Express from the Veld Marshal de Munich, with Advice, that it has been resolved in a Council of War, that General Lacy is to keep his Troops in a Body ready for any Event, while the Count de Munich goes with his Army upon a considerable Enterprize, in which he is to employ above 200 Cannon and 50 Mortars.

From Vienna of the 29th O. S. they write, that the Emperor has appointed the Prince of Saxe Gotha, (Brother to her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales) Lieutenant Veldt Marshal of his Armies; that the Emperor has settled a Pension of 10,000 Florins a Year on the Princess Victoria, the universal Heiress of the late Prince Eugene of Savoy, on her yielding to the Emperor that Prince's noble Library: That Comnenus Paleologus, who said he was descended from the antient Emperors of the East, died at Vienna the 27th, in the 61st Year of his Age; and that Francis Anthony de Sporck, Count of the Holy Empire, a Privy Counsellor, Chamberlain of the Golden Key, Stadtholder of Bohemia, &c. &c. died the 19th at his Seat at Lyssa near Prague, Ætat. 77.

A Letter of the 20th ult. from Leghorn says, that in the Letters which Hiacintho Paoli, the Chief of the Corsican Rebels, wrote to the French Commandant, he remonstrated, that the Deputies who were chose by the People to declare their Grievances, could not repair to Bastia, for fear that the want of decent Apparel should expose them to laughter; and for this Reason he desired the Commandant to let them have what was needful from Bastia, which was granted, and not only Cloaths sent, but even Taylors to make them: But it seems this was not at all pleasing to M. Mari, the Commissary General of the Island, who thinks that the French are too indulgent to the Corsicans.

Another Letter of the 19th ditto from Bastia says, that when the Deputies came thither (as mentioned in our last) the French Count sent his Secretary to compliment them, and gave them a magnificent Supper, during which his Excellency posted 4 or 5 of his Lackeys to attend them, assuring them at the same time, that they should by always treated in the same manner during the whole Course of the Negociations: The Day after their Arrival, they had a Conference with the Count, which held above two Hours; and thereupon his Excellency sent an Express to the Court of France, as did the Marquis de Mari another to his Masters the Genoese for fresh Instructions.

They add the following Account from Leghorn, said to be brought by the Captain of a French Ship from Algier, viz. That an English Brigantine being ready to sail from thence to Majorca, 16 Slaves endeavoured at the same time to make their Escape: That for this Purpose, while the Master and most of the Ship's Crew were at Divine Service, they broke their Irons and went on board the Brigantine; in which there were only two Seamen left. This done, the Fugitives immediately cut the Cables, and spread all the Sail they could to get out of the Harbour, during which, the Brigantine by Heedlessness fell foul of the Dey's Ship and received some Damage, so that she was overtaken by several small Vessels sent out to pursue her, and when the Slaves were brought back to the Dey's Palace, he was so exasperated, that he caused the Heads of 4 of 'em to be struck off, and their Bodies to be dragged along the Streets to the Place where they were to be buried without one of the Gates of the City, and that the other 12 were so cruelly bastinadoed, that 'tis thought they cannot live. The Dey suspecting the Master and Crew of the Brigantine to have connived at their Plot, has confiscated the Vessel, and put the Crew in a Chain: Nor did his Resentment stop there; for having heard that the Master of the Brigantine was fled for Refuge to the English Consul's House, he caused him to be taken from thence by Force; and the Crew that was chain'd is since fasten'd to a Cart, and put to the painful Labour of loading and carrying Stones,

The Paris Letter of Wednesday last, mentions the Arrival of one of their East India Ships call'd the Fleury, at Port l'Orient, from Pontichery, and says, that in May, June, and July next, the Company expects their other Ships from Pontichery, Mocha, Bengall, China, and the Isle of Bourbon.

It adds, that the Sieur de la Croix, chief Writer of the Law at Marseilles, has presented 6 Mariners Compasses to the Royal Academy of Sciences, by the help of which he proposes to determine the Longitude. The Members of the Academy have made an Experiment of them, and the Count de Maurepas has sent them on board some Vessels for a farther Trial. If the Sieur de la Croix is so fortunate as to make this Discovery, he will not only have the Hundred thousand Livres which were promised to the Inventor of so important a Secret by the late M. du Coudra; but also the same Number of Pounds Sterling promised by the Parliament of Great Britain, besides immense Sums from other Crown'd Heads.

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, April 10. Friday last a Complaint was given into the Magistrates, that a mad Bull Bitch belonging to James Greig, Butcher, had bit many Dogs in the Flesh market, and the said Complaint being proved by credible Witnesses; to prevent the fatal Consequences that must very justly be apprehended from such a Number of furious Mastiffs in this populous Place, the Magistrates issued a Proclamation, 'Ordering all Dogs belonging to that Incorporation to be forthwith put to Death, under 'Penalty of 5 l. Sterling, and Imprisonment to the 'Owners for 12 Kalendar Months; nor are they to 'keep Dogs for 30 Days to come: Also ordering all 'Citizens and Inhabitants to remove their Dogs from 'the City and Liberties; and impowering the City 'Guard and Town Officers to kill all Dogs that 'should be seen on the Streets after next Day at 'Noon; and requiring the Town Treasurer to pay 'one Shilling Sterling Reward for each Dog so 'kill'd. Given at Edinburgh the 7th of April, 1738, 'and of his Majesty's Reign the 11th Year.' The Street Ladies, &c. went very early into Obedience of this Edict; for the Drum had scarce gone round to intimate the same, when they fell a knocking o'the Head all suspicious or ill-affected Curs, some of which they hanged on Sign-Posts, &c. and with Difficulty could they be restrained from killing the Dogs that lead the Blind about the Streets, or attacking the Ladies with their Lap-Dogs. A Detachment of the City Guard was ordered down to the Butcher-Market, when they made very clean Havock of all the Dogs there. Saturday at Noon the Town Officers being provided with large Oaken Clubs, went a Dog-hunting, and killed every Cur they could see or hear of; so that nothing was to be seen but chasing, hacking and slashing; or heard, other than the Lamentation of Butchers Wives, &c. for the Loss of Credit, Honesty, Turk, Twopeny, Cæsar, &c.

There's now passing the Seals a Commission, appointing the Right Hon. John Earl of Hyndford one of the Commissioners of the Court of Police, vacant by the Resignation of James Earl of Findlater.

Above 150 Anchors of Brandy, a vast Quantity of Tea and other Goods, lately seized in Fife, was brought in here under a strong Guard last Saturday, and lodged in the Excise Office.

Edinburgh, April 11 Yesterday the Magistrates of Leith ordered all the Dogs of the Town to be put to Death. Accordingly the Curs were drove into the Harbour end drowned, or knocked on the Head. Several Gentlemen and others have sent off their Dogs to the Country, to avoid the Act; and a certain Writer has sent his Favourite Dog Tipse to Haddington in a Cloak-bag. Patrick Keir in Multries-hill having tied up his Dog, the Beast gnawed the Rope, and getting loose, rushed into the Room on his Master, and bit him severely. The Dog was immediately killed, and Mr. Keir carried to the Sea and dipped. What Comparison can there be between the Death of 1000 Brutes and that of one Person!

For it is a true Specifick Cordial, that perfectly cures that Distemper by gentle Evacuation, by Stool and Urine, the only sure and effectual Way perfectly to cure the Scurvy, &c. and prevent Relapses (notwithstanding what may be dreamt to the contrary) the Truth of which is witnessed to daily, by the many Thousands that have taken this Medicine. It so powerfully rectifies the Blood and Juices, that scrophulous Cases are also speedily cured by it; and all Spots, Blotches, Pimples, &c. on the Skin, are quickly and entirely taken off, the Patients made lively and brisk, many chronick Diseases prevented, and a due State of Health secured.
